CAN YOU COOK?

Orchard City Grange to Hold Most Novel Meeting March 26th

The regular meeting of Orchard City Grange was held on Tuesday evening. H. V. Archibald read a paper on the subject "Methods of Plowing and Kinds of Plows." Some of the suggestions of his paper were at variance with the plowing methods in use at the present time by the members of the grange. Messrs. Bohnett and Keesling entered into a discussion of the subject with the writer of the paper that added greatly to the knowledge of the members.

Jos. Bohnett entertained the grange for a short time by telling them of his recent trip East.

A paper on farm conveniences, by Messrs. Parso and Finnimore, contained much useful instruction.

Mrs. F. O. Putnam described to the grange an iceless refrigerator, kept cool by the evaporation of water in burlap surrounding three sides of a box, in place of wood. This novel cooler will be of great assistance to housewives who are unable to obtain ice regularly.

Miss Pearl Bohnett rendered a comic recitation in clever style.

On account of the death of his father resolutions of condolence were passed for Supervisor F. E. Mitchell, he being a Worthy Past Master of this grange.

Lecturer Abbott has challenged any member of the grange to a championship game of checkers.

The next meeting of the grange will be held on March 26th, and will be devoted to the noble occupation of cooking. Every member to secure admittance to the meeting will have to present some article of food cooked by himself. This regulation applies alike to the men and women. The members are required also to tell the others of the process of concocting whatever mixture they bring. This cooks' meeting will be open to the families of grangers. There will be booths and other entertainment in charge of Mrs. Foster to amuse the younger people.

Orchard City Grange sent a good delegation to Sunnyvale last Saturday to attend the Pomona Grange meeting. They report a splendid time. Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Abbott, Mrs. L. F. Shaw, Mrs. F. O. Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keesling, and J. J. Cornell attended.

Campbell Basketball Team Win.

The basketball game between the Campbell High School team and the University of the Pacific team, played at the University court last Saturday afternoon, was won by the Campbell team, in a score of 15 to 11.

At one time in the first half the score was a tie. In the latter part of the second half also the University team displayed increasing strength so that the game was finished in the greatest excitement with all spectators on their feet, and Campbell still four points ahead.

This is the second time the Campbell team has won from the University, the first game having been played Feb. 22nd at Campbell.

USE OF CIVIC LEAGUE

PROGRESSIVE SOCIETY'S VALUE IN IMPROVING A TOWN.

How a League Was Started in Ambridge, Pa., and the Town Cleaned Up—Much Good Work Done in a Short Time.

How a town may profit if it has a good civic league working for its interests is shown in the following article:

Organized less than half a year ago, the Civic league of Ambridge, Pa., the thriving town, almost city, just across the line from Allegheny county, in Beaver county, has already taken a strong hold on life, made itself nearly indispensable to the 6,000 or more citizens of the town and bids fair to rival the achievements of any trade body in western Pennsylvania in its own territory, says the Pittsburg Dispatch.

The idea of an organization similar to a board of trade in Ambridge first came to Rev. A. W. Kinter, a preacher of the town, about the beginning of the year. He spoke to others, and a small meeting resulted, which was informal and attended by only a half dozen prominent citizens. The suggestion appealed to all of them, and the project was set under way at once.

The pulse of the people, as represented by leading citizens, was sounded, and the proposition looked good to a great majority. Accordingly letters were mailed to all the business and professional men of the town and to the heads of departments in the American Bridge company on Jan. 9, 1906, calling a general meeting a week later.

About 100 men appeared at the meeting, and the business of organizing the movement was taken up with a rush that presaged results when the body was in working order. Officers were elected, a meeting place named and one evening every month set aside for meetings. In its brief existence the league has grown considerably, and its membership now numbers about 150, every one of whom is interested in the welfare of the body and at all times looking after its interests.

Under the central body of officers the league has a board of directors and three separate and distinct departments, which have their own officers and organizations. The board of directors is composed of the officers of the whole league and the officers and directors in the three departments, making twenty-one in all. The plan of the organization of the body is simple after its workings are understood, and the results already obtained by the league are so gratifying under the plan that the league could never be persuaded to change.

The departments are called "municipal affairs," "industrial development" and "education, social science and art" and really correspond to appointed committees in other bodies of similar purpose. However, the officers of the departments are not appointed, but are elected by the members of the departments themselves, for when a citizen is admitted to membership he is given choice as to what department he will enter. Thus membership in the league really means membership in two organizations. Business that comes before the league as a whole is referred to one of these departments when it is deemed advisable to act at all.

The object of the league is not different from the purpose of other trade bodies. Its motto, "A higher public spirit and a better social order," indicates its ambition, the uplifting of the community in which it lives. In its brief existence it has already done much good work, and the end is not yet.

Thus far the department of education, social science and art has done the most effective work. For months the vacant lots in Ambridge were unpleasant to look upon and anything but pleasing to the sense of smell when the wind blew across them. The league decided to change this and started to work with characteristic energy.

Sinking its hands down in its own treasury, the league drew out some of the resources of its infantile strength, organized gangs of workmen and put them to work at cleaning up the town. It was general house cleaning day in Ambridge for certain, and the people generally, including the none too hygienically careful workmen in the mills, took to the idea, and some of them helped in the work. Contractors and builders of the town did their part by lending wagons, horses and drivers. A general day of cleaning was declared, and the lovers of the virtue that is next to godliness rejoiced.

As the amount of dirt was great, all of it was impossible to cart away and burn in one day, and since that eventful first day the carts and horses are about the streets again once a week. A few cesspools that had collected were drained, and now the town is in good condition. It is the aim of the league to teach by campaign of practical education the foreign workmen and their families to burn all the refuse.

The industrial development department is already in communication with several companies which are going to move their present locations, and it is promised that this department will do much to increase the population as well as the resources of the town.

The municipal affairs department was the first to get into action, and the members found themselves in the midst of a fierce fight soon after the officers were elected. There were when the league was organized many "speak eas" in and about Ambridge, and the profit from the sale of illegal liquor was great. The league at once started for the proprietors of these spots and told them to shut up their shops. The request was declined at first, but pressure was brought to bear, and when it was seen that the league was determined the proprietors either moved on or reformed.

Children's Work in Ypsilanti.

The certificates of membership to the boys' and girls' auxiliary to the Civic Improvement association, a branch of the American Civic association, have been distributed to the various schools for distribution among the children, 1,100 to the different city schools and 400 to the training school, or 1,500 in all. The certificates are very neat and are made of bond paper and impressed with a gold seal. The boys and girls will have their names on the certificates and will agree to help make the city in which they live more beautiful. So neatly are the certificates got up that they will be framed and kept with the other certificates received from the schools by the children. The work they are to do in this association will be under the instruction and supervision of the grade teachers.

Grange National Banks.

The grange national bank movement seems to be spreading in Pennsylvania. In Cambria county a bank was recently established on property costing $20,000 which will be fitted up in a most attractive style. Pennsylvania is giving the grange national bank system a thorough trial and we anticipate that other states will follow in its lead if these institutions prove successful.
